

Course Changes for the academic year 2020-21

The Faculty does not plan to make any changes or amendments to the teaching programmes for the 2020-2021 academic year at either undergraduate or postgraduate level.

However, there will be a change to the method of teaching - certainly for the Michaelmas Term - but most likely for the whole year. All lectures and large classes will be delivered on-line and recorded. Recordings will subsequently be available for students unable to attend for COVID-related reasons.

Precise details and instructions on how to connect and access lectures and classes will follow in due course.