

Theology, Religion, and Philosophy of Religion

Course Changes for the academic year 2020-21

For the Theology, Religion, and Philosophy of Religion Tripos and the Bachelor of Theology for Ministry we are aiming to give lectures and most classes online, combining pre-recorded material with live discussions and some live lectures. The availability of safe space for social distancing and the changing government guidelines will determine how much can be delivered in person, and this will be monitored throughout the year. As a result our teaching is likely to involve a mixture of both online and in-person methods.

There are no changes to the Theology, Religion, and Philosophy of Religion programme.